EXPLORATION

Messy play any day

Exploring and investigating is what children naturally love to do and providing a variety of fun and safe resources to allow them to accomplish this is key to any constructive learning environment Whether it's engaging in messy play, water and sand play or measuring and pouring - children will be learning about the world around them through discovery and experimentation.

POLARB
Play to change

The best of the PolarB range has been specially selected by Commotion to include toys for role-play, construction, imaginative play, as well as infant toys and activity centres. Both PolarB and Commotion share a similar ethos of believing that learning through play is a critical part of a child's development and they both value the importance of providing toys that are designed with multifunctional aspects of educational purpose.

It's all aboutcare & love

Wooden activity wall panels are hard-working resources for any early years environment. They offer interesting and stimulating activities for developing fine motor skills, exploring colour and shape, making sounds and rhythms, solving puzzles and learning to tell the time. Used in collaborative play or for children to use independently, the activities will also encourage the development of communication skills and use of descriptive language.

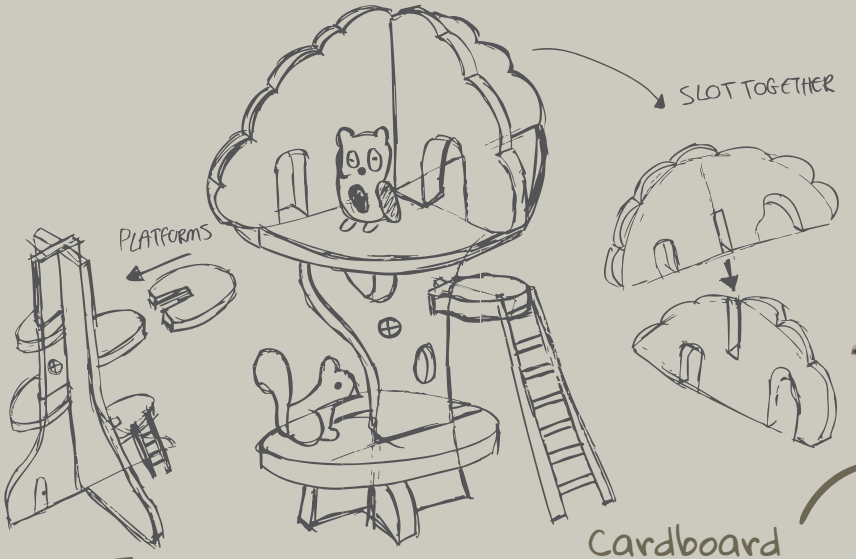
CHAMPIONS of open ended play tickit® resources are intentionally open-ended. Not "just" toys - they're versatile learning tools that adapt to each child's individual needs and developmental stage. A single product can delight multiple age groups, abilities and interests. Cost per play is superb value!

FSC Seasonal Gem Trees

Crafting innovation from the ground up.

Inspired by a slot-together Christmas tree decoration, our beautiful treehouse was designed to encourage young children to engage in imaginative small-world play.



Initial sketch

Cardboard mock ups

Final product

CAD planning & rendering

The project started with concept sketches and cardboard models to explore form, scale and a construction method suitable for children to complete themselves. A detailed 3D CAD model was developed, with in-house 3D printing used to add play elements like animals and ladders. The final stage involved producing technical drawings and collaborating with the factory to bring the design to life!
